Every day, about 1,600 people are released from prisons

in the United States.

Of these 600,000 new releasees every year, about 480,000 are subject to parole or some other kind of postrelease supervision. Prison releasees represent a challenge, both to themselves and to the communities to which they return. Will the releasees see parole

Access Free

Panasonic

as an opportunity to be reintegrated into society, with jobs and homes and supportive families and friends? Or will they commit new crimes or violate the terms of their parole contracts? If so, will they be returned to prison or placed under more stringent community supervision? Will the communities to which they return see them

as people to be reintegrated or
people to be avoided?
And, the institution of parole itself is challenged with three different functions: to facilitate reintegration for parolees who are ready for rehabilitation; to

of releases to refrain from crime or stay out of prison. In contrast, for this study the National Institute of Justice (NIJ) of the U.S.

Department of Justice asked the National Research Council to focus on "desistance," which broadly covers continued absence of criminal activity and

Specifically, the
